1. The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the history of the Indian people. It begins with a description of the early races of India, and then goes on to discuss the various dynasties which have ruled the country from time to time. The author also deals with the religious and philosophical systems which have developed in India, and with the literature and art of the different periods.

2. The second part of the book is devoted to a more detailed study of the various dynasties which have ruled India. It begins with the Mauryas, and then goes on to discuss the Guptas, the Harisharas, the Cholas, the Pandyas, the Vijayanagara rulers, the Mughals, and the British. The author also deals with the various religious and philosophical systems which have developed in India, and with the literature and art of the different periods.

3. The third part of the book is devoted to a study of the various religious and philosophical systems which have developed in India. It begins with a discussion of the Vedas, and then goes on to discuss the Upanishads, the Bhagavad Gita, the Ramayana, the Mahabharata, and the various schools of Hindu philosophy. The author also deals with the various religious and philosophical systems which have developed in India, and with the literature and art of the different periods.

4. The fourth part of the book is devoted to a study of the literature and art of the different periods of Indian history. It begins with a discussion of the early literature of India, and then goes on to discuss the literature of the various dynasties which have ruled the country. The author also deals with the art of the different periods, and with the various religious and philosophical systems which have developed in India.
